Government and Members of the Legislature of Pennsy vania, 1899-1960 contains the following thumb-nail sketch of the life of Hon. J S. Weller, who, as announced in THE GAZETTE last week, has gone to Pittsburg to practise law:

"John Sheridan Weller, of Bedford ounty, who represents the Thirtysixth senatorial district, composed of Bedford, Somerset and Fulton counties. was born in Northampton township, Somerset county, November 1, 1867 and soon thereafter his parents moved to Hyodman, Bedford county. He attended the public schools of that borough and in 1885 entered the Pennsylvania State college. After the usual course in that institution he was gradnated a civil engineer in 1889, but after practising that profession for a year determined to read law and for that purpose entered the office of Messre. Russell & Longenecker, as a registere student. After two years of diligent reading he was admitted to practise at the Bedford bar in 1891 and has since been admitted to membership of the bars of the federal courts and the state. superior and supreme courts. "Exceptionally fortunate in his ef forts, Mr. Weller made rapid progress both in popular favor and success in business and in the fall of 1893 he was elected district attorney of Bedford county and served with satisfaction to the time of his admission to the bar he began taking an active interest in politics and has been twice elected chairman of the Republican county committee, his management materially contributing to the advantage of his party in each instance. In 1898 he was nominated for state senator Her maiden name was Mary Ann Kegg and in November was elected over and she was born and raised in Cole his Democratic opponent by 8,300

Between now and the new year, which is close at hand, there will be a rattling among the dry bones in every d part ment of the city. It is true that the loot is vast, but the applicants are many. A hundred millions is no small price, and even allowing for the largest margin of honesty, the honest profits are sufficient in two years to insure the lucky holders moderate comfort for the rest of their political days. We sincerely hope that the efforts now made in behalf of honest government may be successful and that while on to the collector of original books. A Unique Book. A publishing firm which makes a spenaity of expensive editions of standard authors has recently published an edition of the works of Dickens. The set is in thirty volumes and liberally if astrated and illumined. An eccentric onyer decided he would like to have a set composed of the proof sheets of the edition. These were, of course, much marked, corrected, noted and otherwise marred, but they were collected and bound in an exquisite binding and sent paid $1,400 for the privilege of owning probably the most unique reprint of a set of Dickens' works in existence. Of the last seven elected presidents he is the third who has been murdered and the bare recital of this fact i sufficient to justify grave alarm among all loyal American citizens. Mereover, the circumstances of this, the third assassination of an American president, bave a peculiarly sinister significance Both President Lincoln and President Garfield were killed by assassius of types unfortenately not uncommon in history, President Lincoln falling a victim to the terrible passions aroused by four years of civil war and President Garfield to the revengeful vanity of a disuppointed office seeker. Pres dent McKinley was killed by an utterly deprayed criminal belonging to that body of criminals who object to all governments, good and bad alike, who are against any form of popular liberty if it is guaranteed by even the most just and liberal laws and who are as hostile to the upright exponent of a free people's sober will as to the tyrannical and irresponsible despot. Anarchy and Anarchists.

The president continues with a eulogy of Mr. McKinley, then turns to the subject of anarchy, denouncing its doctrines and prenchers. He says: I earnestly recommend to the congress

Anarchy is a crime against the whol

The president next considers business conditions, which he finds highly satisfactory. He continues:

The tremendous and highly complex industrial development which went on with ever accelerated rapidity during the latter balf of the nmeteenth century brings us face to face at the beginning of the twentieth with very serious social problems. On the contrary, never before has the average sweeping changes, alike in industrial man, the wageworker, the farmer, the and political conditions, which were to small trader, been so well off as in this country and at the present time. There have been abuses connected with the accumulation of wealth, yet it remains true that a fortune accumulated in legitimate business can be accumulated by the person specially benefited only on condition of conferring immense incidental benefits upon others. Successful enterprise of the type which benefits all mankind can only exist if the conditions are such as to offer great prizes as the rewards of

It is discreditable to us as a nation that our merchant marin should be utterly insignificant in comparison to that of other nations which we overtop in other forms of business. We should not longer submit to cond tions under which only a trifling por tion of our great commerce is carried in our own ships. To remedy this state of things would not merely serve to build up our shipping interests, but it would also result in benefit to all who are interested in the permanent estab-Behavent of a wider market for Amer ican products and would provide an auxiliary force for the navy. At present American shipping is under certain great disadvantages when put in competition with the shipping of foreign countries. Many of the fast foreign steamships, at a speed of fourteen knots or above, are subsidized, and all our ships, sailing vessels and steamers alike, cargo carriers of slow speed and mail carriers of high speed have to meet the fact that the original cost of building American ships is greater than is the case abroad: that the wages paid American officers and seamen are very much higher than those paid the officers and seamen of foreign competing countries, and that the standard of living on our ships is far superior to the standard of living on the ships of our commercial rivals. judicious. The president adds: In many respects the national banking law furnishes sufficient liberty for the proper exercise of the banking function, but there seems to be need of better safeguards against the de ranging influence of commercial crises and financial panies. Moreover, the currency of the country should be made responsive to the demands of our domestic trade and commerce.

Economy in expenditures is urged Amendment of the interstate commerce act is advised to insure the cardinal rovisions of that act. The work carried on by the department of agricul ture is next considered and praised highly. The president then turns to preservation and irrigation of arid lands, saying that both are highly necessary. He would put all the work in connection with the forest reserves n charge of the bureau of forestry.

Irrigation. The president continues by tracing the connection between the forest reserves and the water supply. He says: The forests are natural reservoirs By restraining the streams in flood and replenishing them in drought they make possible the use of waters other wise wasted. They prevent the soi from washing and so protect the storage reservoirs from filling up with silt. Forest conservation is, therefore, an essential condition of water conser vation. The forests alone cannot, however fully regulate and conserve the waters of the arid region. Great storage works are necessary to equalize the flow of streams and to save the flood waters. Their construction has been conclusively shown to be an undertaking too vast for private effort. Nor can it states acting alone. The government

Whatever is merely the territory on the traditional American lines. Porto Rico is declared to be thriving as never before. The attention of congress is called to the need of legislation concerning the island's pub-He lands. In Cuba it is stated that much progress has been made toward putting the independent government of the island upon a firm footing, and it is declared that independence will be an accomplished fact. The president adds:

Elsewhere I have discussed the question of reciprocity. In the case of Cuba, however, there are weighty reason of morality and of national interest why the policy should be held to have a peculiar application, and I most earviding for a substantial reduction in constantly growing surplus for the tariff duties on Cuban imports into the United States.

In dealing with the Philippine peo ple we must show both patience and strength, forbearance and steadfast resolution. Our aim is high. We do not desire to do for the islanders merely what has elsewhere been done for tropic peoples by even the best foreign governments. We hope to do for them what has never before been done for any people of the tropics-to make them fit for self government after the fashion of the really free nations. The only fear is lest in our overage lety we give them a degree of independence for which they are unfit, thereby inviting reaction and disaster. As fast as there is any reasonable hope that in a given district the people can govern themselves self government has been given in that district. There is not a locality fitted for self government which has not received it. No single great material work which remains to be undertaken on this continent is of such consequence to the American people as the building of eanal across the isthmus connecting North and South America. Its impo tance to the nation is by no means ilmited merely to its material effects upor our business prosperity, and yet with a view to these effects alone it would be to the last degree important for us im-mediately to begin it. To Judge an Opal.

An expert on opal mining has recenty explained how the opal is judged as o quality and desirability. First, he says, color is of the greatest impor tance. Red fire, or red in ce ibination with yellow, blue and green, are the best. Blue by itself is quite valueless, and the green opal is not of great value unless the color is very vivid and the battern very good. The color must be true—that is to say, it must not run in streaks or patches, alternating with a colorless or inferior quality.

Pattern is described as being an impattern very good. The color must be Pattern is described as Harlequin is the most common and is also popularly considered the most beautiful. When the squares of color are regular and show as distinct, minute checks of red, yellow, blue and green, it is considered magnificent. Some stones show better on edge than

An Object Lesson to Grant. This story is told of the first time Grant ever had charge of a large body of men sent out to give battle. He was colonel in the early part of 1862, detailed to go to the relief of an Illinois regiment, supposed to be surrounded by Confederates at Palmyra, Mo., but when he arrived the regiment had re-Heyed itself by retiring. Grant then went out to Fiorida, in the same state, and as the regiment toiled over the hill beyond which the enemy was supposed to be in waiting Grant says he would have "given anything to be back again

Getting the Musical Pitch. Musical pitch has a curious tendency to creep up. It is said that Bach's mu sic sounds much differently now from what it did when Bach wrote it, be cause the instruments are now pitched higher. In 1882 it was found that the pitch of high A at the Vienna Court Opera had crept from the prescribed 435 double vibrations a second to 443 and in 1885 this number had further increased to 450.

Accordingly a musical conferen was held, and a resolution was take: to re-establish the old pitch of 435 vibrations per second. Upon this au-nouncement the Reichsanstalt, the immore or less, adjoining lands of Abram Weisel, Benjamin Kegg, deceased, Hanry Shoemaker, John James and others. There are good buildings, fruit and planty of water on this form. Also 129 acres and 67 perches of mountain land, timbered.

Also at the same time and place what is known as the George Shoemaker farm, containing about perial physical and technical institute of Germany, set up standard instru ments and has since tested and corrected many hundreds of tuning forks shortening them if they are too low in pitch and thinning the arms if they are too high.

All the military orchestras of Ger many are pitched alike, and the Reichs anstadt keeps the tuning forks correct This solicitous care of the government in preserving standards is one reason why the world now goes to Germany in musical matters.—Pearson's.

A Choice of Calves. The difficulties the early Virginian colonists had with their live stock is curiously illustrated by the fact that in the colony of Massachusetts Bay a red calf was cheaper than a black one experience having shown that the for mer was more likely to be attacked by wolves, owing, it was thought, to the wolves mistaking it for a deer.

Black Cheviot and Serge.

If you are going to judge a store, judge it by its dress goods, and judge its dress goods by black cheviots and serges. A big part of the dress goods business is in this stuff, and as much care should be given to the choice of it as is given to the most exclusive noveltics. Only the best of wool and the best weave and the best dye and the best mills should be admitted.
